How England Drank In 1512.

This is how our forefathers managed in a time when tea and coffee were unknown and beer was the common beverage of the Englishman. In the Northumberland Household Book, commenced in 1512, we have an exhaustive account of the domestic economy of the great Percy family, and from it we learn that at breakfast, which was served at 7 o'clock in the morning, the earl and countess had a quart of beer and a quart of wine between them; two sons, "My Lorde Percy and Maister Percy," a pottle (two quarts) of beer, and two children in the "Nurcy" (nursery) a quart of beer. For dinner, at 10 o'clock, my lord and lady had a gallon of beer and a pottle of wine, the two boys a quart of beer and the younger children a pottle of beer. At supper, at 4 o'clock, the earl and countess shared a pottle of beer and a pottle of wine; the children also had their allowance. For "livery," which was served in the bedroom between 8 and 9 o'clock in the evening, the parents were supplied with a gallon of beer and a quart of wine and each pair of children with a pottle of beer. Surely there could in this case have been no "drinking between meals." — London Chronicle.

Bulgarian Wedding Customs.

A curious wedding custom which exists in Bulgaria is the shaving of the bridegroom on the wedding day.

While the barber is engaged upon his face a dancing crowd of boys and girls surround the bridegroom. When his hair has been cut, the pieces are carefully collected by some of the girls, to be preserved in one of the bride's chests.

After the barber has finished his work he receives a small white linen cloth as a present, and each person gives him a trifling sum of money. Then the bridegroom kisses the hand of each girl, washes his face and dons his wedding dress, which must be first accurately weighed three times by a lad.

These strange customs are said to date back to pre-Christian days, but they are still strictly observed, especially in country districts.

Forty Bibles a Minute.

The Bible publications of the Oxford University Press have been issued for 300 years and can be published in 150 languages and dialects. Orders for 100,000 Bibles are quite common. An order for half a million copies can, according to the Caxton Magazine, be readily filled. On an average from thirty to forty Bibles are furnished every minute. There are 110 different editions of the Oxford Bibles in English, varying from the magnificent folio edition for pulpit use to the "brilliant" Bible, the smallest edition of the Scriptures in the world. The largest folio Bible printed in Oxford measures 19 by 12 inches, and no erratum has as yet been found in it. The "Brilliant Text Bible" measures 3¾ by 2⅛ inches and is three-fourths of an inch thick.

Stockings.

How many readers are familiar with the history and origin of the most common articles they daily use? We eat, drink, wear without thinking whence or wherefore. Stockings were known among the Romans more than 1,800 years ago, as is proved by paintings found in the ruins of Pompeii. They were considered more ornamental than useful. In the colder climate of northern Europe they became a necessity, and the manufacture of them became a recognized employment in the twelfth century, when they were fashioned chiefly of cloth. In the reign of Edward II. they assumed a resemblance to those now worn. At the courts of Spain and Italy they were fashioned of silk and were made enormously large.

The Language of the Turf.

"Couldn't you get your money down on that race?"

"No."

"What was the trouble."

"I pronounced the name of the horse correctly and the bookmaker couldn't understand me."—Washington Star.

Pretty Decent Husband.

"But you say her marriage to young Highroller turned out better than was expected?"

"Much better. He hadn't spent more than half her money when they separated."—Brooklyn Life.

The Artist's Aim.

Friend—But—er—what's the idea of the work? I don't quite grasp it.

Artist—The idea is to sell it.—Chicago News.

He'd Be Leavin'.

"Now, 'tis Oi do be askin' ye," said Clancy, "av yez sees a dawg growlin' wid 'is mout' an' waggin' wid 'is tail, which ind wud ye believe in?"

"Thot's easy," replied Moriarty. "Shure, Oi be leavin' th' front ind, Clancy."—Baltimore News.

Uncommercial Liszt.

Artistic folk frequently have somewhat vague notions about business. Some of them are quite ignorant of it, others utterly indifferent to it and others yet hate the very name of it. One in the last named category was Liszt. He had returned from a successful tour, and Princess Metternich, the wife of the celebrated statesman and diplomatist, was questioning him regarding the concerts he had been giving abroad.

"I hear," she said, "that you did good business in Paris."

To which Liszt gave the tart reply: "I only played some music there. Business—that I leave to bankers and diplomatists."

To another lady the musical cleric gave a still more sarcastic answer. "Ah, Abbe," she sighed, "what a great fortune you would make if only you could be induced to go to America to play!"

"Madame," returned Liszt, "if you stood in need of that fortune, believe me, I would go at once." — Collier's Weekly.

The Eye of the East.

Damascus, perhaps the most ancient city in the world, claims the proud title of "the Eye of the East," which the striking beauty of its aspect from a distance fully justifies.

Bright buildings which sparkle under the Syrian sun rise out of a mass of many tinted foliage. To the northwest stretch the long, bare, snow white ridges of Anti-Lebanon, while in charming contrast gardens, rich cornfields and teeming orchards form a brilliant setting on all sides.

Winding through this profuse display of oriental beauty, the rivers Barrada and Phege—the Abana and Pharpar of Scripture—lose themselves far to the east in Lake Bahr-el-Merj. On a nearer view much of this glamour vanishes, and there is abundant evidence of general decay.

A similar title is given to Athens in Milton's "Paradise Regained." It is:

Athens, the eye of Greece, mother of arts.

A Pair of Catfish.

A pair of catfish that were continuously watched in a government aquarium made a nest by removing the gravel from a corner. During the first few days after hatching the fry, banked in the corners of the tank, were at irregular intervals actively stirred by the barbels of the parents, usually the male. Subsequently the parents were seen to suck the eggs into their mouths and then extrude them with some force. The predaceous feeding habits of the old fish gradually overcame the parental instinct. The tendency to suck the fry into their mouths continued and the inclination to spit them out diminished, so that the number of young dwindled daily, and the 500 that had been left with their parents had completely disappeared in six weeks, although other food was liberally supplied.

Gounod the Man.

Gounod was one of the most fascinating men I have ever met. His manner had a charm that was irresistible, and his kindly eyes, as soft and melting as a woman's, would light up with a smile now tender, now humorous, that fixed itself ineffaceably upon the memory. He could speak English fairly well, but preferred his own language, in which he was a brilliant conversationalist, and he could use to advantage a fund of keen, ready wit. He was at this time influenced by a recrudescence of that religious mysticism which had strongly characterized his youthful career, but his tone, though earnest and thoughtful when he was dwelling upon his art, could brighten up with the lightness and gayety of a true Parisian.—Hermann Klein in Century.

Light Work.

"My brother Jakey's got a new job."

"Where's he working?"

"Down to the electric light plant."

"Picking currents off the wires?"

"Yes. How did you guess? He says he likes the job. It's such light work."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

A Religion That Grows.

The idea that Mohammedanism is "played out" would be a dangerous one for statesmen to bank upon. It isn't.

Mohammed began his career as a prophet more than 600 years later than the beginning of the Christian era. At present he has 176,000,000 disciples, more than one-third as many as there are Christians in the world.

Nine hundred years ago there were in India no Mohammedans. Now there are 50,000,000, and they are increasing in number constantly. They are by all odds the most energetic subjects in British India.

The western wave of Mohammedanism rolled up to the farthest corner of Spain, up to the walls of Vienna, and then began to recede, but the shrinking process was accompanied by expansion elsewhere. In Africa Mohammedanism is steadily proselyting. Russia in Europe has 3,000,000 followers of the prophet, more than there are in what is called "Turkey in Europe."

Asia, however, the realm of future growth, is the Mohammedan stronghold. To less than 4,000,000 native Christians there are 109,000,000 Mohammedans.—New York World.

The Duke's "Thirteen Clock."

An ingenious timekeeping arrangement exists today which was designed by that famous Duke of Bridgewater who laced South Lancashire with canals and died a hundred years ago. The duke was a great stickler for punctuality, and he was annoyed that the workmen on his estate at Worsley did not return to work after dinner as promptly as they left off when the clock struck 12. When he remonstrated, he was told that while the workmen always heard the clock strike 12, they often failed to hear the single stroke of 1. The Duke of Bridgewater quickly found a remedy for this difficulty. He had a clock made that would strike thirteen times an hour after noon, and that clock proclaims 1 o'clock with a baker's dozen of sonorous strokes to this day. The "thirteen clock" is one of the curiosities of Worsley Hall.—Westminster Gazette.

Sex of Gems.

The Romans, following the Greek mineralogists, divided gems into males and females according to the depth or lightness of their color. These terms are thus alluded to by Theophrastus: "Both these (beryl, carbuncle, omphax, crystal and amethyst) and the sard are found on breaking open certain rocks, presenting certain differences, but agreeing in name with each other. For of the sard the transparent and blood red sort is called the female, while the less transparent and darker kind is termed the male, and the cyanus also is named one sort the male and the other the female, but the male is the deeper in color of the two." The cyanus, or cyanos, of the ancients is said, though probably incorrectly, by many modern mineralogists to be identical with our sapphire.

The Letter "M" in Mother.

It has been pointed out as a curious fact that the letter "M" in almost all known languages — English, French, Latin, Spanish, Greek, Hebrew, Chinese and the others—is to be found in the word which stands for mother or nurse. Perhaps this is owing to its representing a sound which exists in every spoken speech and has the same pronunciation in them all. It is also exceedingly easy to utter and is one of the first sounds that children make, and it therefore naturally enters into the appellation given to the nursing parent in the first cries of recognition and affection. There is no doubt at all that "ma" and the other baby names for mother originated directly from the child.

An Observing Child.

One man in New York had social aspirations which somewhat warped his admiration of his homespun father. The father actually sometimes relapses into the barbarism of eating with his knife. But the man has a little son whose eyes seek and find out the truth. The other day the little boy licked some mashed potatoes from his knife, and his mother chided him. "Sammy, dear," she said, "only stupid people eat with their knives." "How can you say that, mamma?" cried the child. "Grandpa eats with his knife. And he made all our money!"

Launched on His Literary Career.

"I understand your son has decided to go in for literature."

"Yes, and he's made a splendid start already."

"You don't say."

"Yes; he went to an auction this morning and bought a secondhand writing desk for only $4.98."—Catholic Standard and Times.

An Inviting Field.

"They say there's an island in the Pacific with 600 inhabitants where drunkenness, crime, jails, police and courts are unknown."

"Is that so? It's a wonder somebody hasn't started in to civilize it."—Brooklyn Life.

Solving a Mystery.

Little Tommy—Papa, what is a biped?

Papa—An animal with two legs. For instance, a man is a biped, my boy.

Better Than Detraction.

"There are worse things than egotism," says the Manayunk philosopher. "It is better to talk yourself up than to run other people down."—Philadelphia Record.

Under some conditions a man can make more noise in the world by keeping his mouth shut than in any other way.—Chicago News.

HUMAN PANTOMIME.

Certain Gestures Absolutely Identified With Certain Feelings.

Certain gestures are absolutely identified with certain feelings. To shake one's fist is to threaten, to hold up one's finger is to warn. To indicate thought we place the tips of the fingers on the forehead, to show concentrated attention we apply the whole hand. To rub the hands is everywhere a sign of joy, and to clap them a sign of enthusiasm. It would be easy to multiply examples. Affirmation, negation, repulsion are all indicated by motions that every one understands. It is the same, in quite as great a degree, with nationalities, in spite of the original diversity of the races that make them up. The mimetic character results at once from race, from history and from climate.

The gesture of the Englishman is fierce and harsh. He speaks briefly, brusquely. He is cold, positive, forceful. His salutation is cold and accentuated, but his handshake is loyal. The gesture of Germany is heavy, good humored and always ungraceful. Many of the Slav people are unwilling to look one in the face, and they have a false gesture. The Spaniard and the Portuguese, although dwelling in a southern land, gesticulate little. Their language is rhythmic, slow, solemn; they are grave; their salutation is a little theatrical. The Italian is lively, mobile, intelligent, gay. His language is harmonious, sonorous, warm and luminous, like his country's sky. The salutation of the Italian is quick and full of feeling, his gesture colored and exaggerated.—London Answers.

Children and Growth.

The year of greatest growth in boys is the seventeenth; in girls, the fourteenth. While girls reach full height in their fifteenth year, they acquire full weight at the age of twenty. Boys are stronger than girls from birth to the eleventh year; then girls become superior physically to the seventeenth year, when the tables are again turned and remain so. From November to April children grow very little and gain no weight; from April to July they gain in height, but lose in weight, and from July to November they increase greatly in weight, but not in height.

Meanings of Several Names.

Asia means morning or east; Europe, evening or west; Australia means lying to or in the south; hence we may consider that these names mean eastern land, western land and southern land. Asia is a Greek word; Europe is a Hebrew word; Australia is a Latin word. The origin of the word Africa is uncertain. Some conjecture that it is a Semitic word meaning "Land of Wanderers."

Fuel In Ancient Rome.

The fuel of the ancient Romans was almost exclusively charcoal. This was burned in open pans, without grate or flue, and gave economical heat for living rooms and baths. Careful experiment has shown that such fires yield no considerable amount of dangerous carbonic oxide. The inconvenience of chimneys was avoided, the heat could be easily regulated, and a pan with a burning surface sufficed to heat a church seating 2,000 people.

Work While You Pray.

A squall caught a party of tourists on a lake in Scotland and threatened to capsize their boat. When it seemed that the crisis had really come, the largest and strongest man in the party, in a state of intense fear, said, "Let us pray." "No, no, my man!" shouted the bluff old boatman. "Let the little man pray. You take an oar!"—Success.

Got His Numbers Right.

A certain lawyer, who is now a very able judge, was, when he first came to the bar, a very blundering speaker, says Youth. On one occasion, when he was trying a case of replevin, involving a right of property to a lot of hogs, he said, "Gentlemen of the jury, there were just twenty-four hogs in that drove—just twenty-four, gentlemen—exactly twice as many as are in that jury box!" The effect can be imagined.

Rhinoceroses With Two Horns.

Several species of rhinoceroses, now extinct and only found in a fossil state, used to exist which had no horns at all. The name, meaning as it does "horned nose," is rather a misnomer in their case. Several kinds of rhinoceroses in Africa have two horns, one behind the other, but the extinct rhinoceros, known as the dyceratherium, had a pair of horns on its nose side by side.

It Did Him Good.

"I am sorry, doctor, you were not able to attend the supper last night. It would have done you good to be there."

"It has already done me good, madam. I have just prescribed for three of the participants."

The Coffee Cup In Persia.

The expression "to give a cup of coffee" has in Persia a somewhat ominous significance. This is due to the fact that the coffee cup is one recognized medium for conveying poison. Some years ago the governor of Aspadana, having long been at daggers drawn with the chief of a powerful mountain tribe, determined in this way to put an end to all trouble. He professed to entertain a great degree of friendship and esteem for the chieftain and invited him to visit him at his palace. The chief unsuspiciously came, accompanied by his two young sons. For a week they were royally entertained. But at last one morning when the chief came into his host's presence he was coldly received, and an attendant soon stepped forward with a single cup of coffee in his hand, which he offered to the guest. The latter could not fail to understand that he was doomed. Preferring, however, steel to poison, he declined the cup and was thereupon, at a signal from his host, stabbed to death.

When Men Were Branded.

A curious relic of bygone times, probably the only one in England, still stands at Lancaster castle. It is a strong iron holdfast, into which the prisoner who in olden time had been sentenced to be branded as a malefactor had his hand thrust and locked. The branding iron, after being made red hot at the end, was pressed against the "brawne of the thumb," and on being withdrawn the letter M branded on the unfortunate prisoner's flesh indicated from henceforward that he was a malefactor. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the judge and jury and in open court, and the brander invariably turned to the judge after he had done his work and exclaimed, "A fair mark, my lord!" It is 100 years since the instrument was last used on two men sentenced to imprisonment for manslaughter.

East Indian Monkeys.

A naturalist who has traveled in the East Indies says: "The effect on the monkeys of man's appearance is most interesting. The expression of their emotions is certainly almost human as they sit and stare at him, coughing and snarling with anger and contempt, drawing back their heads and throwing the hand before the face with a gesture of abhorrence and other movements indicative of shocked and outraged feelings. But predominant is the expression of absolute horror, which, coming from those we consider our still degraded cousins, is to our superiority very aggravating."

Analysis of a Tear.

The chief element in the composition of a tear is water, but with water are associated minute proportions of salt, soda, phosphate of lime, phosphate of soda and mucus, and when seen under the microscope a tear after evaporation looks like a very small fish bone, owing to the salines forming themselves into lengthened cross lines.

Perfect Work Assured.

Fuddy—Come, now, what would you propose to bring about an ideal state of things?

Duddy—Nothing easier, my friend. I'd just put everybody at work upon somebody else's job, and then of course every kind of work would be done perfectly.—Boston Transcript.

Mosquitoes are so numerous near the coast of Borneo that the streams of that region are in summer often unnavigable.

The recent marriage of a couple of cripples, each having only half the proper complement of arms and legs, was noted by the press as a "connubial curiosity." But who notes the marriages which occur daily in which both parties are cripples in health.

Crippled health means, as a rule, insufficient nutrition, and lack of nutrition points to disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tract. Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect nourishment of the body, and so builds it up in sound health and strength.

"I had been a great sufferer from indigestion for the last nine years," writes Mrs. Margaret Stingle, of Owings Mills, Baltimore Co., Md. "I was such a wreck it seemed death was near, but to-day can say I feel like another woman. I have received much and lasting good from Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' I have taken twenty-five bottles in all, and followed the advice of Dr. R. V. Pierce, and am happy to say that life is worth living now. A thousand thanks for your treatment."

Do not be cajoled into trading a substance for a shadow. Any substitute offered as "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery" is a shadow of that medicine. There are cures behind every claim made for the "Discovery."

RUSSIAN MASSACRES.

The barbarities committed upon the Jewish population of Bessarabia, in Asiatic Russia, have caused a cry of protest and indignation from the civilized world. History furnishes no record of blacker deeds than those which have recently been enacted in this Russian province. The tortures and nameless cruelties upon the Hebrew people are comparable only to the fiendish deeds of savages. But Russia is a professedly christian nation. The proclamation of the Czar granting freedom of conscience and religion throughout his wide domains was still ringing in the ears of his subjects, who were grateful beyond measure for this onward step in behalf of tolerance in matters of faith, when the story of this hideous slaughter of unoffending citizens is told to the world. Isolated instances of inhumanity are not uncommon in every civilized nation. They are not unknown even in the United States, which takes foremost place in kindly and beneficient laws. The lynching of negroes by burning at the stake in the south, are admittedly blots upon our civilization. The few cases of cruelty inflicted upon the Filipinos in the turmoil of passions inflamed by warfare, are to be regretted. The redeeming feature about these instances is that they are not condoned by public opinion. The authorities are swift to condemn them. But in Russia there is no condemnation for these murderous assaults upon the Jews. No effort to bring the perpetrators to account for their crimes. There is too much reason to infer that officials of the government, if not actually instigating the massacres, are quietly abetting them by shielding the guilty parties.

And wherefore are these atrocities committed. Two causes are suggested. One—that put forward by the Russians themselves—that the Jews are a hated race in the land of the Czar because of their commercial instincts. They are the money lenders, the usurers of that country, as they are in other parts of the world. For this reason they are persecuted. The other cause assigned—and by far the more probable one—is on account of their religion. The ecclesiastical head of the province is reported to have said, that the Hebrews must either emigrate or become converts to orthodox faith. It is the same spirit that lighted the fires of christian martyrdom in the early days, and through the dark ages. It is this feature of the barbarities that stamps the persecution as so peculiarly out of joint with the enlightened sentiment of the twentieth century.

ONE PROTEST.

The miners' union at Jackson, Amador county, has declared an ultimatum to the non-union miners that is directly opposed to the principles of American freedom and should not be countenanced. The proclamation declares that every miner who fails to become a member of the Western Federation before the 26th of June will be declared a scab and published and treated as such. The warning has been printed on cards in three different languages, and posted about the mines in and around Jackson. Unionism as it is defined by such an action cannot live, and the sooner it is squelched the better it will be for the cause. Unionism is rapidly advancing to decline through the mandatory means employed in securing the desired ends, and if permanent and helpful results are obtained there must be a change in the methods of procedure. —Dixon Tribune.

The Ledger is pleased to publish the above from the Dixon Tribune. It is the only exchange so far received that has deigned to make editorial comment upon the shameless assault upon individual liberty made by the local union. The Nugget of Placerville reprinted the Ledger's article on the subject in full, without comment. One significant point must be mentioned. Not a paper that has come to our table has had the temerity to indorse the coercive pronounciamento.

The Jackson miners' union, realizing the feeling of doubt and insecurity that pervades the industrial situation, and the prejudicial effect this condition of affairs is having, and is still likely to have, upon the mineral development of this region, unless removed, publishes a resolution passed at a regular meeting of the union, declaring that they will loyally abide by the terms of settlement recently agreed upon between employers and employes, and assuring mine owners, business men and capitalists that no further disturbances will occur as the result of any action on their part. The Ledger is pleased to announce this official acknowledgment that the interests of mine owners, miners, and business men generally are mutually dependent. Prosperity cannot be enjoyed by the workingman while the dark shadow of uneasiness and unrest is thrown across the path of the employers. The realization of this fact is a decided step toward the restoration of confidence and increased activity in mining circles. Words of goodwill, however, must be reinforced by friendly acts. The "scab" placards still disfigure the highways and byways of Jackson. Perhaps the resolution herein referred to was intended as a public withdrawal from the policy outlined in these "scab" notices. Certainly the two declarations do not dovetail into each other. They are inconsistent. If the union will dispel any remaining doubt by removing these insulting placards—denounced as they are on all sides, as an attack upon the basic principles of government—it will cover itself with honor, and do much to restore business confidence and activity.

AN AMADOR CASE DECIDED.

Taxes paid to redeem Property sold to the State cannot be recovered from the Mortgagee.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals this week handed down the following decision:

The Anglo-Californian Bank, Ltd., vs. Elizabeth Eudey, Frederick Eudey and Alexander Eudey, executors of the last will of Henry Eudey, deceased. Judgment reversed with directions to the court below to enter judgment for the bank with costs.

The action was begun by Henry Eudey in his lifetime. The complaint alleged that the Gover Mining Company, about May 1, 1894, mortgaged to the bank for $15,000 certain mining property in Amador county. The mortgage was assessed to the bank and the taxes not being paid, the property was sold to the state. After Eudey became the owner of the record title on foreclosure proceedings, he demanded that the bank should pay the delinquent taxes, interest, percentages and penalties to the state. The bank refused, and Eudey sued to recover the amounts paid by him to the state to remove the state's lien on the property. Suit was brought in the United States Circuit Court, and judgment was rendered in favor of Eudey and against the bank.

In reversing this judgment the Circuit Court of Appeals say that it is true that by sections 4 and 5 of article 13 of the constitution of California and section 3716 of the Political Code it is made the duty of the mortgagee to pay the mortgage tax, but it appears from the record that the assignment of the mortgage in question, made by the bank to the Abner-Doble Company, was made upon the condition that the company, its successors and assigns, should assume to pay all taxes then assessed, or that might be assessed thereafter, upon the mortgage. Eudey must be held chargeable with a knowledge of the public records, which imparted knowledge of the facts that the assignment of the mortgage carried with it the obligation to pay the taxes that had been or should be assessed against it or the moneys secured thereby.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. NEW SUITS.

James Farrell vs. N. Rosenberg and Lester H. Jacobs—Action to recover the sum of $1020 due for labor performed on the Farrell mine, situated in Jackson mining district. Complaint states that in September, 1895, plaintiff was engaged by defendants as watchman of the mining property, at a stipulated price of $20 per month. That he performed said services for a period of 88 months. The total value of such work being $1760. That the sum of $740 has been paid, leaving a balance of $1020 still due and unpaid. Plaintiff filed and recorded a lien against said property to secure his claim, and now seeks to foreclose said lien, and asks for judgment in addition to the amount of claim due, $1.50 for recording lien, and $300 attorney's fee. J. L. Sargent and R. C. Bole, attorneys.

Alvinza Hayward vs. Geo. M. Huberty, as administrator of estate of Andrew Mackenzie—Suit to quiet title to Nevada quartz mine, in Amador mining district.

Estate of Naomi E. Luttrell—The petition of Mrs. Mattie Hipkins for letters sets forth that deceased died on the 17th of May, 1903, leaving real and personal property in Amador county valued at $1100. The real estate consists of lot 40 of the Hamilton tract in Jackson, valued at $1000. The heirs are Edward Ketchum of Santa Monica, a brother of deceased; John Ketchum and Albert Ketchum, residing in Ohio, half brothers; Mrs. Ralph Love, Mrs. Nellie Jones, Nevada, and Mrs. Mary Dean, cousins. Petitioner asks for letters at the request of deceased's brother.

The Wastes of the Body.

Every seven days the blood, muscles and bones of a man of average size lose two pounds of worn out tissue. This waste cannot be replenished and the health and strength kept up without perfect digestion. When the stomach and digestive organs fail to perform their functions, the strength lets down and health gives way, and disease sets up, Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all over the wholesome food that may be eaten into the kind of blood and strength of the mind and body. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. It is an ideal spring tonic. Sold by City Pharmacy.

Road Sprinkling.

H. Cook of Sutter Creek has purchased the sprinkling outfit, consisting of four horses and wagon, from Tom Maher. He has taken the contract to sprinkle the road from Jackson to Amador City, and entered upon this work last Monday. It is the intention to put in more hydrants, so that the cart may be filled with water at shorter distances than heretofore, and thus enable a stronger stream to be put upon the road than heretofore. By this means it is hoped to be able to make the round trip once a day, thereby sprinkling twice, which is deemed sufficient to get the highway in good condition for travel.

Suckers Scooped.

While J. W. Todd, superintendent of the power house at Electra, was on his usual tour of inspection last Saturday afternoon, he noticed a commotion in one of the pools near the tail race into which the water from No. 5 generator empties before going into the river. It proved to be a lot of suckers (fish) that came from the river when the water was turned on, and when shut off they were penned in. Mr. Todd and several others went in, "clothes and all," and in a short time 133 fish were captured, varying from 10 to 18 inches in length. The pool being very shallow, the fish were easily caught. At this time of the year suckers are good eating, the flesh being firm and hard.—Calaveras Chronicle.

Discord in the Ione Band.

Last Saturday morning the Ione junior band started in one of Crabtree's wagonettes and four in hand for Amador City, where they expected to enliven the air with sweet music at the Sunday school picnic held at that place. Frank Treason was driving, and was proud of his team as well as his passengers, and all went well until the down grade of the hill at the ice plant beyond Sutter Creek was reached. At this point the horses became frightened at a passing team, and started to run. The brake was faulty and would not hold, and the team increased its speed, and the now thoroughly frightened boys realized their danger. The horses in their mad run, struck the wire fence to the right of the road, which resulted in a general smash-up. The rig was turned over, and the occupants thrown out in all directions, but luckily no one was seriously hurt, although several of the boys were considerably bruised and scratched up. The driver, Treason, did not fare quite so well. His wrist was sprained, and his bruises a little more severe. The wagonette was a total wreck. It looked as if it had encountered a "Kansas cyclone." None of the horses were injured. Several of the instruments belonging to the boys were damaged beyond repair, and they will now have to blow some "other fellow's horn." The boys all congratulate themselves on their miraculous escape, and as Crabtree is good natured, he doesn't care as long as the horses were not hurt.

Liner Power Drill.

The Liner machine drill is being tried on the Del Monte mine in Calaveras county. The Burleigh, which has been in use since machine work was introduced there, was found to be very slow in getting through the unusually hard rock that has been encountered. The Liner drill was recommended as a big improvement upon the old style machine. A spare one—which had been used for trial purposes in Sutter Creek—was secured, for test purposes. It was taken to the mine two or three weeks ago and started. For some reason the apparatus did not work satisfactory, so the agent was notified, and came up to the mine to personally superintend the operations, and to instruct those in charge how to run it to advantage. Under his charge, however, the results did not come up to expectations. The rock proved to be too hard for the drills, and breaks were too frequent to suit the company. The conclusion was reached that the steel in the drills was not of the right temperament. A new machine has been sent for. It is claimed that under ordinary conditions the Liner machine will do at least 25 per cent more work than the old drills, while the harder the rock the greater the difference in favor of the new machine.

To Undergo An Operation.

The eleven year old son of Emanuel Garibaldi, who was accidentally shot in the hip about three months ago, is still confined to his bed. The wound was a very serious one. The full charge of small shot striking him at close range, tearing away a mass of the tissue. Three wads were extracted from the wound. Of course the process of repair in such a wound is necessarily slow. Yesterday morning he was taken by his friends to Stockton, Dr. Endicott accompanying him on the journey. His condition was such that an operation was deemed necessary at once. The nature of the operation could not be determined until the conditions were revealed by the surgeon's knife. It is sincerely hoped that the life of the sufferer will be spared without permanent disability.

Baseball Last Sunday.

The best ball game that has been played in Amador county for several seasons was witnessed last Sunday by an enthusiastic crowd at the Dwyer ranch south of Jackson. The Jewell Bourbons of Jackson played the Volcano team. The Jackson band was in attendance, and enlivened the time before and after the game with interesting music. The sympathy of the crowd was with the local team, but the opposing nine were admired for their skill and almost errorless playing. The score was 3 to 2 in favor of the boys from the "apple regions" at the ending of the eighth inning, but a wild throw in the ninth inning allowed their opponents to make two runs and to win out, the score being 4 to 3 in favor of the Jewell Bourbons. Everybody enjoyed the sport, and all are anxious for the return game, which will be played in Volcano next Sunday.

Narrow Escape.

Edwin Bartle, who is employed at the Zeila mine, had a close call for his life on Friday last. He was working in the shaft, trying to land a timber. The heavy stick struck him, causing him to lose his balance, and he fell down the shaft. The accident happened at a point 200 feet from the bottom. His comrades who were working with him, naturally concluded that he had fallen to his death, and exclaimed, "He's gone." To their amazement, as well as their great relief, the voice of Bartle, only a few feet below them, responded, "No I ain't, I'm holding on." No time was lost in extricating him from his perilous situation of "holding on." It seems that after falling 25 feet, he instinctively grasped the railing of the shaft, and saved himself from destruction. He was bruised up considerably, especially about the back, but no bones were broken. He was taken home, where he is being attended by Dr. Phillips. He expects to be in working trim again in a few days. [Bartle returned to work Wednesday.

Survival of the Fittest.

Eighty-one applicants were present at the examination before the state dental board conducted by Dr. Herrick of Jackson in San Francisco on the 18th inst. Six of the number were not permitted to enter the contest on account of not having the necessary credentials. Of the remaining seventy-six, twenty-two failed, which is considered an unusual high per cent of failures, but demonstrates the thoroughness of the dental board, and proves that no incompetent person need apply. If this rule was applied to all trades and professions, we would all profit by the result.

Frank Hoffman went to the city last week to consult with specialists in regard to his hearing, which has been failing of late. He returned in the early part of the week. He was informed that there was nothing the matter with his hearing apparatus that called for surgical treatment, nothing more than a reduced acuteness, the result of advancing years.

Aeronout Hamilton, who made such a successful balloon ascension and parachute jump at the celebration held in Jackson last 9th of September, has notified parties here that if the citizens conclude to have a fourth of July celebration in Jackson this year, he is willing to make another aerial leap from a balloon on the same liberal terms as he did last year. This would be a big drawing card. He is not a fakir, and guarantees a successful ascent and leap or no pay.

William Pellow, whose sight was destroyed by a blast at the Wieland mine some years ago, left Jackson Tuesday morning, bound for Mauch Chunk, Pennsylvania, where a married sister resides. He is stone blind both eyes. He was accompanied as far as Sacramento by his son-in-law, W. J. Pascoe, who saw him safely on the cars with his fare paid to his far-off destination. He will make the railroad trip alone, in special charge however of the conductor. He expects to be away four months, and may decide to remain there permanently.

Ernest Spagnoli, who is home from St. Matthew's school at San Mateo for the summer vacation, was awarded the gold medal for spelling at the examination held just before the close of the term. The medal is a nice piece of workmanship, and beside the name of the school, has engraved on it the word "Spelling." It represents the highest standing in the school in that particular line. We are pleased to report this success on the part of one of the pupils from Jackson.

Clint Radcliffe, who has been nightwatchman at the Kennedy for many years, has been compelled to give up his position, owing to failing health. An ulcer appeared on the side of his head, which has refused to yield to treatment. It is of a cancerous nature. By a rest and placing himself under medical care it is hoped a cure may be effected. Radcliffe in 1893 was driver of the Ione stage, at the time messenger Tovey was killed by a stage robber. Shortly after that he surrendered the lines, and assumed the duties of watchman at the mine, which he has held ever since.

The Sunset Company has had a force employed in putting in the tall poles along the east side of Main street for several days. These poles are 50 feet long, buried six feet, so that the top reaches 44 feet above the ground, away above the tallest building. The poles are of Oregon cedar, nine inches in diameter at the top, and about 15 inches at the base. The work of putting them in position has created much interest. The ease with which such heavy long timbers are handled by six men is surprising. The raising of the telephone wire out of reach of the buildings, and on the opposite side of the street to the light wires, is a decided improvement.

LOCAL MINING NEWS

Notes From Amador County Mines. Oneida Down 2280 Feet.

MITCHELL. — The sheriff's foreclosure sale of the Mitchell mine and mill will be found elsewhere in this issue. The judgments on foreclosure of liens, aggregate less than $3000. All the cases were consolidated in one suit, so the amount represents the total amount for labor and material against the property. It is surprising that a promising mine, such as this was considered to be up to the very point of closing down, should be sacrificed for such a small sum. According to many who are in a position to know, it is still held to be a valuable mine. It is hoped that the outcome of the sale will be that it will fall into the hands of parties who are able and willing to develop it as its prospects demand.

BOSTON.—At this property, which lies on the Calaveras side of the Mokelumne river, opposite Electra, men were put to work last week to take out the water from the shaft, with the view of enabling experts to inspect the mine in the interest of intending investors.

ONEIDA.—The shaft has reached a depth of 2280 feet. It is the intention to sink 200 feet more. Sinking has been suspended temporarily, to enable new levels to be opened.

LANCHA PLANA.—J. L. Swass of Watsonville has purchased the hotel property at Lancha Plana. On June 1st he will commence to prospect the ground, believing it to be pay dirt. Years ago Lancha was a prosperous mining camp, and fortunes were made in gravel mining. The property above mentioned has never been worked, and it is hoped that Mr. Swass will be rewarded for his trouble, and if successful, mining would undoubtedly be resumed, as there is still lots of virgin earth in that vicinity.

BUENA VISTA COAL MINE.—This property was opened up about two years ago. Development had been slow and careful until the worth of the mine was demonstrated. It is now beyond the prospect stage. At a depth of 60 feet a ledge eleven feet in thickness was found, and covering an area of at least forty acres. This ledge, as all coal ledges, lies flat, and a casual observer will readily recognize the immense amount of coal in sight. The quality is above the average, and is the cheapest fuel that can be used for domestic or other purposes.

Schoolmates Wed.

Thomas Bennett of San Francisco, an exemplary young man, who has spent the greater portion of his life in Jackson, returned to his old home a few days ago, and before his many acquaintances realized his presence, he had taken his departure—but not alone. One of Jackson's sweetest girls accompanied him as his bride. It is a pretty story to tell. A romance of school days, and the truthfulness of the beautiful words, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder."

The happy couple were quietly married at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. Crowgey, in north Jackson, Tuesday morning, May 26, by Rev. G. H. Van Vliet. Only relatives of the couple were present. An exception to most weddings was departed from, as the bride's sister, Miss Minnie Northey, and the groom's father, James Bennett, stood up with them. Who could more aptly vouch for a son than the father, or a sister for a sister? The bride wore a pleasing dress of cream alpaca and silk, which was quite in keeping with her true nature, modesty, and refinement.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left the bride's late home amidst showers of rice and rose leaves. They were driven to Ione, where they took the evening train for San Francisco, which will be their future home.

Many beautiful and useful presents were received from friends in Jackson, Vallejo, and San Francisco.

Miss Northey will be missed by ever so many of Jackson's people, as her pleasant ways won her friends innumerable. She was a worthy member of the Methodist church, and from whose circle she will be missed as well.

Mr. Bennett is a prosperous and industrious mechanic, and appreciative of all that is good. What couple could be better fitted to enjoy life's blessings.

Charged with Burglary.

The saloon of Neil Hamm, on the Main street of Ione, was burglarized and robbed some time during Tuesday night. Within a few hours of the commission of the crime, Charles Young, charged with the offense, was landed by sheriff Norman in the county jail. From the particulars that we have been able to gleam of this robbery, it was a carefully planned affair. It seems that Young had been around Ione for several days, following gambling as an occupation. His folks live on a ranch a mile or two out of Galt, where Young, who is about 24 years of age, was brought up. During Tuesday he had been in and out of the saloon a number of times, and his actions were regarded as peculiar, so much so as to arouse the suspicion of the proprietor. On opening up next morning, it was discovered that the premises had been entered through the rear door, the till ransacked of its contents, $1.40, and the two nickel-in-the-slot machines opened, and rifled of their contents, amounting to $14.10, making $15.50 in all. An investigation showed that a couple of nails that had been placed in the windows in place of the usual spring catches to prevent the window from being opened from the outside, had been removed. The burglar, however, did not enter through the window, but broke the back door, so as to enable him to insert his arm and unlock it. Sheriff Norman and Deputy Jackson at once repaired to the scene. Young was soon placed under arrest. Articles of an incriminating character were found upon him. We understand that the money has been recovered, the accused informing the officer that he had hid it upon the roof of the burglarized premises. The case is so strong, that Young does not deny the affair. He was brought to the county jail Wednesday night, where he now lies awaiting examination.

To a Premature Grave.

Charles Eugene Armstrong, son of the late Judge C. B. Armstrong, for several years superior judge of Amador county, died at the home of his mother in Jackson on Saturday morning, after a lingering illness. He was aged 19 years and 16 days, and was born in Jackson. His removal on the threshold of manhood, and with a promising career apparently opening up before him, cast a feeling of gloom over not only his relatives but all who were acquainted with him. He was the only child of his parents. His relatives anticipated a bright future for him. In the public school he displayed unusual talents, and there is no doubt he possessed mental powers far above the average. After graduating from the Jackson school, he was sent to attend St. Mary's school at Oakland, with the intention of fitting himself for professional life. It was his ambition to become a lawyer, following in the footsteps of his father. There is no doubt that his intellectual qualifications specially adapted him for the work which he had set his heart to accomplish. But while the spirit was willing the flesh was weak. Soon after resuming his studies at the last term of school, he was taken sick, and for several weeks was treated at one of the sanitariums in the city. The sickness developed serious heart trouble, and other grave complications. As soon as he was well enough to stand the journey he returned to Jackson, reaching home about a month ago. His medical advisers here, upon examination, found that his condition was very critical. From the start little hope of recovery was held out. He was confined to his bed for about a week before the final summons came. He leaves a mother, grandmother, and other relatives to mourn his untimely death.

The funeral took place at 10 o'clock last Monday from St. Patrick's Catholic church with mass, Rev. Father Gleeson officiating. Many kind friends attended the funeral, and did all in their power to assist the heartbroken mother in her bereavement.

The pallbearers, all schoolmates of the deceased, were: Eugene Devan, Chas. Cademartori, Alphonse Marre, Ed Delahide, Chas. Williams, and Frank Firenzi.

Correspondence.

Editor Amador Ledger:—

Under date of May 15th, in the columns of the Amador Ledger, an article was republished from the Sacramento Bee that to let stand unrefuted would be an injustice to the people of New York Ranch district. The teacher for the past term stated that last December a woman teacher visited the district, and that she had quite a few intimate friends, among them being two of the trustees. That statement is utterly false from beginning to end, as said visitor was a stranger to the neighborhood. She only applied, as did another teacher, a man, for the school, should there be a vacancy, as it was so generally known that there was much dissatisfaction. As to her other remark about there being so much jealousy on account of teachers, that is equally untrue, for when the first teacher, who was employed for the term, resigned for a better position, it was with deepest regret that the people were compelled to let her go. An Ione teacher also has taught the school for two successive terms, and could have continued as teacher for another year had she wished to do so. It is true that Miss Pharis would not resign, but it is only because the trustees did not like to use harsh measures, but could they have forseen how she intended to keep her promise (that she would resign any time if not satisfactory) they would not have hesitated to do so.

MAGNIFICENT MOVING PICTURES

On Tuesday evening, June 2nd, the local public will be given a rare treat in the moving picture line. Prof. Bradshaw, who has toured the United States, visiting many of the large cities with his wonderful exhibition, will appear at Love's hall. The exhibition comes highly recommended, and should attract a very large audience. The ever interesting moving pictures will be displayed interspersed by beautiful illustrated songs by G. W. Bradshaw, baritone. Every picture is beautiful, clear and distinct, life size and so life-like that you'll be astonished beyond measure. In speaking of the entertainment, the Angels Camp Mountain Echo said:

Bradshaw's moving picture entertainment held forth in Dolling's Hall last Thursday evening to a crowded house. This is really the best production of moving pictures ever exhibited in this town. The pictures are produced in life size, clear and distinct, and free from the flickering that usually accompanies the production of moving pictures when in the hands of inexperienced manipulators.

The pictures exhibited by Mr. Bradshaw are all up-to-date, and consists of a variety of views, all of which are interesting and pleasing. Seventy-four scenes were presented during the evening. We have witnessed many moving picture exhibitions in our time, but never have we seen them presented as perfectly as by Mr. Bradshaw. We heartily recommend the Bradshaw entertainment to the public, assuring every person who attends their money's worth in beautiful and pleasing scenes.

IN MEMORIAM.

Whereas the great and Supreme Ruler of the universe has in his infinite wisdom removed from among us one of our worthy and esteemed brothers, Dennis O'Neil; and whereas, the long and intimate relation had with him in his faithful discharge of his duties in this society makes it eminently befitting that we record our appreciation of him; therefore be it

Resolved, That the earnestness and truth which he exercised in aid of our organization will be held in our grateful remembrance.

Resolved, That the removal of such a life from our midst leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members of our parlor.

Resolved, That with deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives of the deceased we express our hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled for good by Him who doeth all thing well.

Amador Apples.

BY J. H. BARBER.

It has long been remarked in this vicinity that apples of remarkably fine quality were grown in the mountain regions of Amador county, especially at elevations of 3000 to 5000 feet. That this fact has not become more generally known and been turned to good advantage is only another illustration of the backward condition of this county in matters horticultural. This, however, cannot last forever, and among the important horticultural resources of Amador county in the future will be the growing of winter apples of high quality, for which there is a large, profitable and increasing demand.

Of course, until railroad communication reaches at least as far as Jackson, only the local market will be available to the apple-grower, but even this might easily be much better supplied than at present, without risk of overcrowding. Scattered through the mountains east of here are numerous small old apple orchards, many of them more or less neglected, which if properly handled could be made to pay handsomely. This is amply demonstrated by the experience of Mr. F. M. Whitmore of Antelope mills, who every year markets his apple crop in Jackson to very good advantage. Mr. Whitmore takes pride in his apples, and they are a credit to his careful handling. Some of his apples, of the Green Newtown Pippin variety, were recently sent by the writer to the agricultural department of the University of California, for examination by Professor Stribenrauch, the assistant horticulturist. Under date of May 19, 1903, Prof. Stribenrauch comments on them as follows:

"The apples received, and in good condition. They show remarkably good keeping quality, considering the crude method of storage. Such apples as these would command a good figure in the market at the present time. I think that the raising of winter apples in our mountain districts is an undeveloped field in California, and I see no reason why it should not be taken up in the future when transportation facilities are improved."

These comments from one of the foremost horticultural authorities of the state are well worthy of notice as indicating one of the many possibilities of horticultural development in Amador county.

Aetna School Closing.

Closing exercises at Aetna school were held last Friday afternoon, in the presence of a large number of parents and friends. The program for the closing exercises was as follows, the participants therein acquitting themselves with much credit. Accompanist, Miss Lila Fuller:

VOLCANO, May 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Hinebaugh and Rose Downs paid Volcano a flying visit last week. Mrs. Hinebaugh and her sister Rose were raised here, and were warmly welcomed by their many friends.

THE "TOUCH" ARTISTIC.

A Delicate Job That the Thief Could Not Resist Doing.

We have cut society too much on the square. Perpendicular and horizontal lines do not make the only intelligent divisions. The relationship of Raphael with a pickpocket I talked to once is more intimate essentially than it is with some makers of "pictures" and molders of "statuary." The thief had been arrested because, having obtained permission to live in New York provided he did not work there, he was caught stealing a watch.

"Why did you do it?" I asked him.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said. "I simply couldn't help it. I'm no kleptomaniac. It isn't the stealing I like, but the fun of doing a hard job prettily. This is the second turn I've made. The first was like this: I saw a rich, fat man in a crowd, and I noticed that his watch was hung in a new way, hard to break. My fingers itched, not for the watch, but to break it off. I moved up, lifted the watch, walked away with it and then went back and hung the thing on the chain again. This second time something like that. I saw a delicate job, tried it, got the watch, and just then the fellow happened to look for the time. He 'hollered,' and a detective near by pinched me. I don't think I'm what you'd call a natural thief, but I like to work with my fingers, and I like the excitement of stealing."—McClure's.

Frederick the Great.

In the course of some military evolutions Frederick the Great of Prussia, irritated by some mistake of a captain, ran after him with his stick in order to strike him. The captain ran away. The next morning the commanding officer reported to the king that the officer in question, one of the most efficient in the regiment, had sent in his papers. "Tell him to come to me," said the king. The officer, in great perturbation, came. "Good morning, major," he apostrophized the officer, who was speechless with surprise. "I wanted to tell you of your promotion, but you ran so fast I could not catch you up. Good morning."

Another time an officer attempted to get a comrade into bad odor with the king by telling his majesty that he was a drunkard. In a subsequent battle the latter's fitness was conspicuous, whereas his slanderer played a very poor part. When afterward he defiled past the king at the head of his regiment, his majesty called out to him in a voice of thunder, "The sooner you take to drink the better."

The Early Circus.

Leaving out of count the great circuses of Rome and Antioch and coming down to something of modern times, the first circus in England was on a footpath known as Halfpenny Hatch, in the Waterloo road, London. There, in 1770, Astley's first performance was given, with the aid of a drum, two fifes and one clown. A charge of sixpence was made for the front standing places. There was no building and not even a tent, but merely a ring of ropes and stakes. Primitive as were the arrangements Astley soon attracted good audiences and was able to add to his programme conjuring, transparencies, vaulting and tumbling, with displays of fireworks. In course of time he was able to hire an inclosed ground and erected seats under a substantial roof. He called the place Astley's Amphitheater Riding house.

A Hearty Eater.

In a book on gastronomy appears this anecdote of the gastronomic prowess of a Swiss guard in the employment of the Marechal de Villars: "One day the guard was sent for by the marechal, who had heard of his enormous appetite. 'How many sirloins of beef can you eat?' he tentatively asked. 'Ah, monseigneur, for me I don't require many—five or six at the most.' 'And how many legs of mutton?' 'Legs of mutton? Not many—seven or eight.' 'And fat pullets?' Oh, as to pullets, only a few—a dozen.' 'And of pigeons?' 'As to pigeons, monseigneur, not many—forty, perhaps fifty.' 'And larks?' 'Larks, monseigneur? Always.'"

Family Relations.

"Who is that man you were just talking with?"

"That's my brother-in-law."

"He looks enough like you to be your own brother."

"He is my own brother. We are twins."

"Twins? Then why did you say he was your brother-in-law?"

"Because he is. I have three brothers—one in law, one in medicine and one in the army."—Minneapolis Tribune.

Hero Worship.

"It strikes me that Brimken deserves a great deal of credit."

"He never impressed me as a brainy man."

"That's just the point. When a man with so little brains as Brimken has managed to be so prosperous, I can't help feeling that he must possess some great and mysterious superiority."—Washington Star.

The Only One.

An American tourist who called on Robert Burns' widow, Jean Armour, a few years after his death had the audacity to ask her, "Can you show me any relics of the poet?" "Sir," answered the old lady, with majestic dignity, "I am the only relict of Robert Burns!"

Plain Talk.

The Miserly Traveler—Be careful with that trunk, you vagabond! I wouldn't have it fall for 10 shillings.

The Porter—I doubt not, but a shilling in time might save nine.—London Express.

The Name Moses.

It is a curious fact, unknown perhaps to a majority of readers, that Moses of Scriptural fame was called by eight different names in various places in the Bible. Bathia, the daughter of Pharaoh, called him Moses because she drew him out of the water. Jochebed, his mother, called him Jekuthiel, saying, "I had hoped for him." Miriam, his sister, called him Jared because she had descended after him into the water to see what his end would be. Aaron called his brother Abi Zanuch because his father had deserted their mother. Amram, the father of Moses, called the boy Chabar because he was again reunited to the mother of the lad.

Kehath, the grandfather of Moses, called him Abigdor because God had repaired the breach in the house of Jacob. The nurse of the grandfather of Moses called him Abi Socho because he was once hidden three months in the Tabernacle. All Israel called him Shemaiah because "in his days God heard their cries and rescued them from their oppressors."

A Useful Coffin.

A writer in an English church magazine once found in a collier's cottage in Staffordshire a coffin used as a bread and cheese cupboard. Notwithstanding his wife's remonstrance, he told the story of the coffin as follows: "Eighteen years ago I ordered that coffin. The wife and me used to have a good many words. One day she said, 'I'll niver be content till I see thee in thy coffin.' 'Well, lass,' I said, 'if that 'll content thee it 'll soon be done.'

"Next day I gave directions to have the thing made. In a few days it came home, to the wife's horror. I got into it and said, 'Now, lass, are thee content?' She began to cry and wanted the 'horrid thing' taken away. But that I wouldn't allow. In the end she got accustomed to seein' it, and, as we wanted to turn it to some use, we had some shelves put in and made it into a bread and cheese cupboard. We have niver quarreled since it came."

Preferred Hogs to Land.

They tell a good one on a prominent real estate man of Waurika. Some time ago he carried a prospector over on Beaver creek to show him a certain claim. He told the man that it was an exceptionally fine claim, that the land did not overflow and that he would sell it to him for $4,000. The man looked around and discovered some red mud way up in a tree and asked the real estate man what caused that mud in the tree tops if the land did not overflow. The agent promptly replied that there was a kind of hog raised over in the Chickasaw country which used to range on the creek and that they rubbed the mud on the trees. The prospector took a look over the land, glanced up in the tree again and told the Waurika man that he wouldn't take the claim, but he would give him $4,000 for a couple of those hogs.—Kansas City Journal.

The Cranberry.

The value of the cranberry as a medicinal agent was early recognized by the American aborigines, who prepared poultices from them to extract the venom from poisoned arrows. On the same principle they are used now as a remedy for erysipelas, taken internally or applied as a poultice. In malarial and typhoid conditions the acid of the fruit is specially commended, while dyspeptics who lack gastric juice are also offered cranberries. Eaten raw they are said to be an excellent remedy for biliousness. As a health food cranberries should not be strained, as too much of their substance is lost.

Sugar Making In 1700.

The historian Lafittali, the period of whose observation dated back to 1700-05, describes how in March the Indians make transverse incisions with their hatchets, from which trickles an abundance of water, which they afterward boil over a fire. He says the sugar thus made has nearly always a burned taste, but that the French make it better than the Indian women, from whom they learned how to make it. Bossu, writing in 1756, is equally explicit as to the source of sugar making.

The Word "Fudge."

Where did that very common word "fudge" come from, and what does it really mean? The appearance of the word in literature is in the description of the call of Lady Blarney and Miss Carolina Wilhelmina Amelia Skeggs on the vicar of Wakefield's household: 'But previously I should have mentioned the very impolite behavior of Mr. Burchell, who, during his discourse, sat with his face turned to the fire and at the conclusion of every sentence would fry out 'Fudge!' an expression which displeased us all and in some measure dampened the rising spirit of the conversation." Does the word come from the provincial French "fuche" or the low German "futsch?" Or shall we trace it to the story of 1700 quoted by the elder Disraeli, "There was, sir, in our times one Captain Fudge, who always brought home his owners a good cargo of lies, so much that now aboard the ship the sailors, when they hear a great lie told, cry out, 'You fudge it!'"—Boston Journal.

Fish That Cannot Swim.

More than one species of fish is met with which cannot swim, the most singular of which perhaps is the maltha, a Brazilian fish, whose organs of locomotion only enable it to crawl or walk or hop, after the manner of a toad, to which animal this fish to some extent bears a resemblance, and it is provided with a long upturned snout. The anterior (pectoral) fins of the maltha, which are quite small, are not capable of acting on the water, but can only move backward and forward. Both these and the ventral and anal fins are very different from the similar fins in other fishes and could not serve for swimming at all.

Other examples of nonswimming fishes include the sea horse, another most peculiarly shaped inhabitant of the sea, which resembles the knight in a set of chessmen, and the starfish.

Robins.

American robins build plaster and dry grass nests in the crotches of trees, while the little English bird of the same name, only about half as big as its cousin in America, makes a soft moss nest on the ground. Its breast is a yellow, red or scarlet, much brighter than the American bird, and it sings even more sweetly, but it is of small value as an insect destroyer. The American robin, on the other hand, has a much duller, quieter coat, a more extended vocabulary, sounding many distinct notes of warning, fear, joy, etc., but not in so sweet a song, and is an inveterate worm and insect hunter. With only occasional lapses into vegetarianism, at strawberry and cherry ripe time, the American robin is really one of the most industrious allies the farmer can have.

"Silk" That Is Really Tin.

Of course British critics say that the practice of adulterating silk with tin originated in Germany. At any rate, it is common enough now.

All silk is mixed with more or less foreign matter to give it weight and stability. Vegetable substances were formerly used for the purpose. In dyeing silk the necessary boiling reduces its weight about one-fourth, taking out the natural gummy substances. The weight is sometimes restored with tannic acid. Tin is more common—most of all in cheap black silks.

Very soft "wash" silks are apt to be pure. Burn a scrap, and nothing remains but ash. A tin weighted scrap when carefully burned leaves a residuum like excessively fine wire gauze.—New York World.

The Derivation of Gibraltar.

In 711 A. D. the Arabs crossed the narrow strait of Gibraltar and established themselves around the famous rock whose name is derived from their leader. Field Marshal Tarik was one of the leaders of the Arab invasion of Spain. Gebel is an Arabic word meaning mountain. The great rock, which was by far the most conspicuous object along the shores of the strait, was accordingly named after Tarik, Gebel el Tarik, or the mountain of Tarik. It is easy to see how this name became changed into its present form, Gibraltar.

Marriage In Turkey.

The dowry of a Turkish bride is fixed by custom at about $1.70, which amount, for politic reasons, is seldom departed from, even by the rich. The wedding day is invariably Thursday, and the customary wedding festivities begin on Monday and last four days. They are carried on by men and women separately, and each day is distinguished by a different ceremony. No spoons or forks or wines are used at the wedding feast.

The Passions and Health.

"The passions' effect on the health is not sufficiently regarded," says a physician in the Philadelphia Record. "The passion which is best for the health is avarice. It keeps one cool, encourages regular and industrious habits, leads to abstemiousness and makes against all excess. And hence the avaricious, the misers, live to a great age. The misers of history were all noted for their longevity. Rage is very bad for one. The passion causes an irregular, intermittent beating of the heart, and the intermittency in time may become chronic. Hatred creates fever. If we hate, we grow lean. This hot passion eats us like a flame. Fear is bad for the nerves, the heart and the brain, and therefore we should never permit ourselves to be afraid. But the strangest effects of all have been caused by the passion of grief. The medical books record cases where, coming suddenly in a violent shock, it has caused a loss of blood from the lungs in one person, paralysis of the tongue in another and a failure of sight or temporary blindness in a third."

"Three Sheets In the Wind."

"What was the origin of the phrase for drunkenness, 'three sheets in the wind?'" a landsman asked a sailor the other day. "Well," said the sailor, "I'll explain that matter to you. The two lower corners of a ship's sail are held taut by two ropes, one called a tack and another called a sheet. The tack is always kept very tight, but the sheet is loosened according to the wind, and the looser the sheet is the more freely the sail swings. If the sail is quite free, its sheet is said to be 'in the wind.' Now, suppose that all three of a ship's sails were quite free. They would then fly about very crazily, and the ship would wabble. The course of the ship would be a zigzag one, and the reason for this would be that she had 'three sheets in the wind.' That, I guess, is why a man, when he zigzags in his course, is said to be 'three sheets in the wind' also."—Philadelphia Record.

An Irish Duel.

The annals of the Emerald Isle bristle with incidents of dueling in which Irish humor, if not at all times Irish bravery, is conspicuous. On one occasion Sir Jonah Barrington fought a duel with a barrister named McNally. The latter had one leg shorter than the other and because it was his habit when in a hurry to take two thumping steps with the short leg to bring up the space made by the long one he was nicknamed "One Pound Two." McNally could get no one of his bar to fight him, and so he challenged Barrington, who good naturedly exchanged shots in the Phœnix park.

The baronet hit his opponent in the braces, then called the "gallows," and feared he had killed him. When the result was made known, one of the seconds shouted, "Mac, you are the only rogue I ever knew who was saved by the gallows."

Slaughter House Byproducts.

Some of the uses of byproducts of slaughtered animals: The blood is used for the production of albumen, the bones for knife handles, toothbrush handles, chessmen, etc.; the horns for combs, backs of brushes, large buttons, etc.; the hoofs for buttons, ornaments and fertilizers. Neat's foot oil, extracted from the feet, has a high commercial value. The fat is used for glycerin and butterin. Gelatin, glue, pepsin and other articles are obtained from slaughtered cattle and sheep. The value of such articles made every year represents many millions of dollars.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT FOR CONSTIPATION

Constipation is nothing more than a clogging of the bowels and nothing less than vital stagnation or death if not relieved. If every constipated sufferer could realize that he is allowing poisonous filth to remain in his system, he would soon get relief. Constipation invites all kind of contagion. Headaches, biliousness, colds and many other ailments disappear when constipated bowels are relieved. Thedford's Black-Draught thoroughly cleans out the bowels in an easy and natural manner without the purging of calomel or other violent cathartics.

Be sure that you get the original Thedford's Black-Draught, made by The Chattanooga Medicine Co. Sold by all druggists in 25 cent and $1.00 packages.

Morgan, Ark., May 25, 1901.
I cannot recommend Thedford's Black-Draught too highly. I keep it in my house all the time and have used it for the last ten years. I never gave my children any other laxative. I think I could never be able to work without it on account of being troubled with constipation. Your medicine is all that keeps me up.
